

The Metamorphosis of Moths & Butterflies

Metamorphosis defines the four stages of development in the life cycle of many insects: eggs, larvae, pupae, and adults. In the metamorphosis of butterflies and moths, caterpillars are the larvae, chrysalis and cocoons are the pupae, and butterflies and moths are the adult form.

